360° ASSESSMENT

THE SCHOOL I'D LIKE (THE GUARDIAN, 2011)

Michael, 11, Norfolk

Children would be more confident if the school encouraged them to express their views and showed them they had listened. It would feel as if everyone was part of a team.

THE SCHOOL I'D LIKE (THE GUARDIAN, 2011)

Jessica, 18, Berwick-upon-Tweed

An ideal school is inclusive of everyone. I think that's important in the modern world we live in.

THE SCHOOL I'D LIKE (THE GUARDIAN, 2011)

Zarah, 8, London

It's important to listen to children because you have to treat them with respect if you want them to have respect for you.

THE SCHOOL I'D LIKE (THE GUARDIAN, 2011)

Linda, 15, London

I think the most important point is having expert teachers, because if you have people who are passionate and well known in their subject they are more likely to engage and motivate the students into excelling in the same way as them.

THE SCHOOL I'D LIKE (THE GUARDIAN, 2011)

Markus, 6, Cambridge

Children should be listened to because they sometimes have better ideas than adults. That is because the children's brains are new and not old.

HANDS-ON ACTIVITY A:

1. TAKE A SURVEY

- What would you change in school?

2. ANALYZE THE RESULTS

HANDS-ON ACTIVITY B:

1. CREATING A SURVEY

- a) Students evaluating teachers
- b) Students evaluating the school
- c) Students self-evaluation

2. SHARING THE SURVEY

THANK YOU!

धन्यवाद

OBRIGADA!
